DESIGN PHILOSOPHY

SIMPLE. LASTING. VIPP. At Vipp, we believe in creating enduring products that stand the test of time. Rooted in our 85-year Danish heritage, each piece in our collection is crafted with meticulous attention to detail, stripping away the unnecessary to reveal refined simplicity. Our focus is on longevity, using high-quality materials and offering spare parts to ensure that Vipp products last for generations.

While we continue to innovate, our commitment to durability and timeless design remains unwavering. Every Vipp product is more than just an object; it's a carefully considered experience. A silent closure, a subtle sound, a tactile touch, a delicate detail, or mastery of materials can elevate a seemingly simple object into a sensory and enduring encounter - designed to become a lasting part of any home or place, rich in history and meaning.

UPHOLSTERY

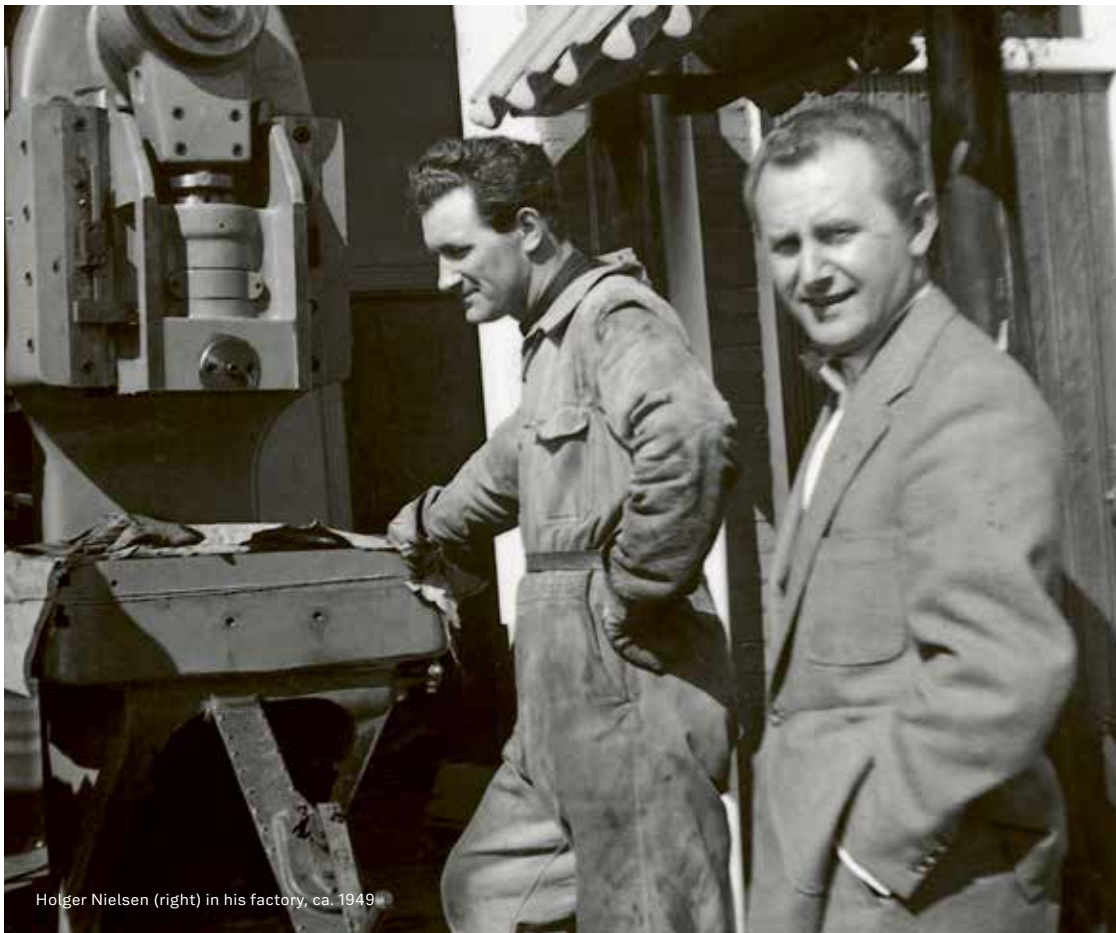

CURATED HERO TEXTILES In our pursuit of simplicity, Vipp introduces a new, carefully designed textile collection for our sofas and upholstered furniture. Each fabric is the result of a meticulous collaboration with a century-old, family-owned Italian textile mill, renowned for its dedication to quality and craftsmanship.

Our curated selection features three unique textiles: Brook, Bark, and Wavy. Brook and Bark each come in two distinct colorways, while Wavy adds a vibrant texture to the collection. These textiles are available on the Vipp Chimney and Loft sofas, with Brook in beige/chestnut enhancing the Vipp Lodge dining chair, and Wavy covering the Vipp pouf.

The new hero textiles are designed to complement our existing furniture upholstery, offering durable and aesthetic options for every space and interior setting.

Jette Egelund, with her children Sofie and Kasper, 2024

Jette Egelund and her mother Marie, ca. 1960

HOLGER HAD A GOOD IDEA. IT ENDED UP IN MOMA

At its core, the story of Vipp is largely one of innovation. An entrepreneurial spirit unites Marie Axelsen and Holger Nielsen in the small town of Randers, Denmark in 1939. At the request of his wife, Holger crafts a practical waste bin for Marie's newly opened hairdressing salon. Initially a token of love, never a business idea, this product becomes Holger's entrepreneurial debut. After experiencing the sturdy, pedal-controlled bin, the ladies in the salon ensure that the bin finds its way into their husbands' dental and medical clinics. Demand prompts Holger to scale-up production of his bin that soon becomes a permanent feature in Danish clinics.

When Holger passes away in the beginning of the nineties, his daughter Jette inherits the bin and a metal workshop in the backyard of her childhood home in Randers, Jutland. She cannot bear to see her father's legacy vanish. For 50 years the bin has been a prerogative for the professional market, but Jette's dream is to cross the threshold to private homes. Jette is joined by her children, Kasper and Sofie, and together they set out to transform the bin into a brand. When the bin gets accepted into the permanent design and architecture collection at MoMA in New York, the family knows that they are on the right track. Today, with its steadfast commitment to product engineering and design, Vipp equals a full-blown design universe of products rich in quality, tactility, and materiality with a shared design philosophy taken straight out of the bin.

DINING ROOM

Marks on a natural stone tabletop or patinated leather on the seat of a dining chair are all traces of daily use, manifested memories. When it comes to our dining room furniture, the ability to age gracefully is revealed by long-term use and defined by the surrounding environment. Shaped from solid materials, the Vipp dining room assortment is designed to withstand the test of time in both function and aesthetics. A dining table featuring a steel frame and a tabletop of either heat-pressed ceramics or dark oak, a slender yet sturdy steel-framed chair, and an additional series of solid oak, natural stone, and padded furniture, the Cabin-and Lodge series constitutes our take on long-lasting furniture fitted for the dining room.

Cabinet System

A SYSTEM OF MATERIAL CURIOSITY

Deviating from its long history of working with metal, Vipp brings together oak, marble, and anodized aluminium in a new modular cabinet and storage system. Based on its forerunner, the Chimney cabinet, the new Vipp Cabinet system is designed to accommodate the shifting needs of modern living and workspaces. The system consists of nine types of modules, each of which can be arranged in endless configurations.

Details p. 138

Choose between open shelves for items on display or closed compartments for hidden objects, arranged in a complementary design asymmetry. Cabinet fronts in Vipp's trademark material – extruded aluminium, recognised from the V3 kitchen and Vipp Chimney House and Shelter guesthouses – add a tactile contrast to the carved oak frame and the marble insertion on top of the cabinet. Opt for a wall-mounted solution or a floor-standing alternative where the modules rest on spindly matching anodized aluminium legs.

COLLECTION

KITCHEN

Vipp inherited not only founder Holger Nielsen's entrepreneurial debut in the form of a robust Stainless-steel pedal bin, but also, his zeal to invent and shape indispensable, durable tools for everyday life. Inspired by this heritage, the first all-metal Vipp kitchen, the V1, was introduced in 2011 and over the course of a decade, we have perfected our very first kitchen system and its design principles of high-quality materials and functional detailing. Now, we introduce a fresh iteration of the Vipp kitchen, dubbed V3, which is designed on the shoulders of the V1. Despite sharing the same overall principles of V1, V3 deviates from the industrial look of powder-coated steel and ventures in a new direction. The freestanding modules are wrapped in anodized aluminium - with vertically extruded profiles curving around the edges to bring a light elegance to the metallic appearance. Resting effortlessly on four legs, Vipp engineers have again blended the everyday functionality of a kitchen with the minimalist aesthetic of Vipp furniture.

Whether fitted for open-plan cooking, a classic workstation against the wall or for the need of maximum storage, each module can be composed of up to 10 units. The V1 kitchen is available in three powder-coated colour variants, black, warm grey, and white, with a stainless steel worktop. All appliances are included.

The fronts of the V1 kitchen are made from powder-coated steel, which is highly durable and resistant to daily wear and tear. The corners of the stainless steel work-top and powder-coated aluminium frame are rounded for a soft take on industrial materials. The solid, one-piece, stainless steel table top is 4 mm thick and floats above the kitchen cabinet to add a light expression to a heavy-weight material.

EXTRUDED ALUMINIUM AND ROUNDED EDGES

The V3 kitchen is made in anodized aluminium. Vertically extruded profiles curving around the edges bring a light elegance to the metallic appearance offering a unique aesthetic, while the underlying design language and 4 mm stainless-steel countertop draw clear lines to Vipp's legacy of metalwork.

CRAFTED FOR THE EVERYDAY

Just like the V1 kitchen, the V3 is built on a modular concept consisting of four different modules: island, narrow island, wall, and tall module. The island module gives versatile options for open-plan cooking while the wall module provides a classic kitchen solution. Add extra storage space and functionality in the kitchen with the tall module, ensuring optimal utilization.

The kitchen cabinets come with discreetly integrated handles, while fridge and freezer cabinets feature long handles with rounded, rubber inner edges that can manage the weight and pressure of the heavier, air-sealed doors.

Marble and stone

Marble and stone – a hard, solid, non-metallic, mineral matter of which rock is made. At Vipp, limestone and marble are a recurring material choice in our furniture designs. The visual expression of both type of stone tells the tale of million of years of natural processing. Veins, fossils, and colour shades are the result of peculiar geological conditions and guarantee that no stones are identical.

Sky grey limestone

The stone has shades of grey varying from almost white to dark grey. White veins and "dust/sprinkle" are common. Fossils and other natural beauty marks often characterize this marble and add a play of colours with a nod to its long history.

Finish: Honed (matte), sealed with impregnation slightly enhancing the colour yet leaving a matte protected surface. Expected surface characteristics: As a natural stone, each piece is unique.

Available on: Coffee table Ø60, Coffee table Ø90 & Cabinet system.

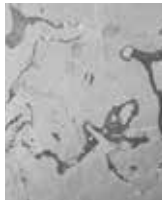

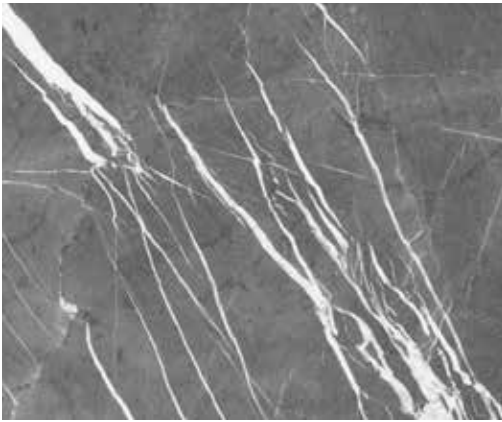

White marble

The white stone has shades of grey varying from almost white to light grey. Natural beauty marks give the stone a sophisticated play of colours including a yellowish hint from natural iron in the stone.

Finish: Honed (matte), sealed with impregnation slightly enhancing the colour yet leaving a matte protected surface. Expected surface characteristics: As a natural stone, each piece is unique.

Available on: Sculpture table lamp and Sculpture table lamp small.

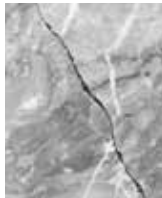

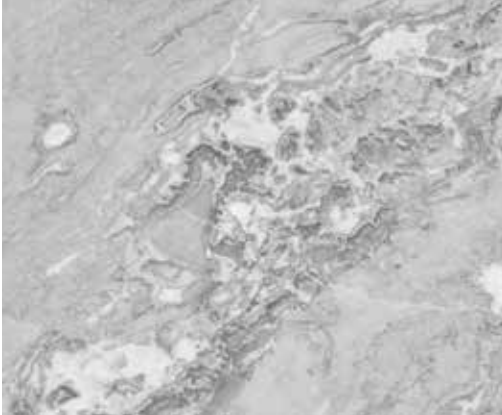

Pietra Grey marble

Showcasing a dark grey background, Pietra Grey marble features bold, contrasting white and black veins. These veins traverse the stone's surface in intricate patterns, creating a refined contrast against the grey backdrop. The veins vary in thickness, from fine, delicate lines to broader, more pronounced streaks, leaving some marble slabs with a lot of white colouration, while others feature hardly any. Occasionally, yellow streaks or red burns may appear within the veins.

Finish: Honed (matte), sealed with impregnation slightly enhancing the color yet leaving a matte protected surface. Expected surface characteristics: As a natural stone, each piece is unique.

Available on: Coffee table Ø60 and Ø90. Cabin round table Ø130 and Ø150, Cabin Square table. Cabinet system.

Ocean grey marble

The grey stone is a dolomite which is a hard and resistant marble. Vipp Ocean grey is a type of limestone which is compacted over millions of years, leaving a lot of details, like white veins, red marks from iron and minerals, glass veins, and long 'cracks' from ancient earthquakes which are filled with resin. The stone has shades of grey varying from light grey to dark grey. Fossils and other natural marks are often seen which gives the stone a nice play.

Finish: Honed (matte) and sealed with impregnation slightly enhancing the colour yet leaving a protected and matte surface. As the Vipp Ocean grey tabletop is made from natural stone, no two pieces are the same. Each marble top has a unique visual expression.

Available on: Vipp427 Coffee table square, Studio desk.

Jura Grau Blau limestone

In the Alp region of Bavaria, ocean sediments have shaped 'Jura', a dense, fine-grained limestone rich in fossils. The Jura Grau Blau is characterized by a rustic appearance that spans in hues from warm, golden tones to cold, grey tones. Glass veins are very typical for the Jura stone, and are made from layers of crystal, appearing like a crack in the stone but are simply a natural characteristic of the stone.

Finish: Honed (matte), sealed with impregnation slightly enhancing the color yet leaving a matte protected surface. Expected surface characteristics: As a natural stone, each piece is unique.

Available on: Cabin round table Ø130 and Ø150, Cabin square table.

Sky grey bush hammered marble

The grey stone has a lot of unique details, like white veins, red marks from iron and minerals, as well as lighter or darker "dust/sprinkles". The stone has shades of grey varying from almost white to dark grey. Fossils and other natural marks are often seen which gives the stone a nice play of colours.

Finish: Bush hammered meaning lots of white spots and intended dents in the surface sealed with impregnation slightly enhancing the color yet leaving a protected surface. The marble is hammered to break the top layer of the stone, creating a less uniform surface with small pockets and gaps, making each tabletop very distinctive. As a natural stone, each piece of marble is unique with distinguished marks, veins, and spots.

Available on: Vipp426 Coffee table square.
